Minimum 4 persons

The Islamic Center

(Masjid-al-Sultan Mohamed Thakurufaanu-al-A"z"am)

Malé's most famous architectural landmark is the three-storey Islamic Centre which was constructed in 1984. The shining golden dome of the mosque stands out in silhouette above the interior walls which are richly decorated with beautiful woodcarvings and Arabic calligraphy.

Hukuru Miskiyy (Friday Mosque)

The Hukuru Miskiyy was built in 1656. The interior and exterior walls of this historic mosque, built with coral stones, are intricately carved with Arabic writings and ornamental patterns.

Munnaru (Minaret)

Close to the Friday Mosque is this gleaming white minaret built in 1675. The chief muezzin of Malé called the faithful to prayer from this minaret before the Islamic Centre was built.

Medhu Ziyaarath (The shrine of Abu al Barakaath Yusuf al Barbari)

Abu al Barakaath Yusuf al Barbari is believed to have been responsible for converting the Maldives to Islam back in 1153.

Mulee-aage (The former Presidential Palace)

The Palace was originally built by Sultan Samsuddeen III for his son just before World War I.

Sultan Park and the National Museum

The Sultan's Palace was demolished except for a three-story building and the palace grounds were turned in to a public park, known as the "Sultan Park".

The remaining palace building within the park is today the "National Museum". See the "long ear" sculptures from the "sun worshippers" who visited Maldives many thousands of years ago

Tomb of Mohamed Thakurufaanu

This tomb is erected in the compound of the "Bihuroazu Kamanaa Mosque", in memory of Sultan Ghazee Mohamed Thakurufaanu, regarded as the greatest of national heroes. He liberated the country from Portuguese rule after they had been occupying the land for 15 years following the defeat of Sultan Ali VI in 1558.

Jumhooree Maidan

Malé's most popular place for gatherings and relaxation especially for youngsters. On the eastern end of the square stands the official flag post on which the largest flag of the country is permanently displayed.
